

Feducation

Federalized Education in the Government Schools

Sam Aurelius Milam III, Thursday, October 24, 2019

The government schools have failed to teach the students the difference between a right and a privilege.

They have failed to teach the students the principles of liberty.

They have taught the students that equality should be imposed by force.

They have taught the students that security is more important than liberty.

They have taught the students that security can be provided only by the government.

They have taught the students that surveillance and intrusion by the government are undertaken for the sake of the people.

They have taught the students that liberty must be sacrificed in order to preserve it.

They have failed to tell the students that a contract obtained by a third party, without the consent of the person for whom the contract was obtained, is void from its inception, and that their Social Security numbers represent such contracts.

They have failed to advise the students that each student's first act as an adult should be to demand the rescindment of the student's Social Security contract.

They have failed to teach the students the definition of money, or the consequences of fractional reserve banking and interest-bearing transactions.

They have taught the students that the United States is a democracy.

They have taught the students that it's good for the U.S. government to forcibly impose its political theories, its economic systems, its social ideologies, and its religious dogmas onto other people, in other countries.

They have failed to inform the students of the atrocious acts committed by the U.S. government, both in foreign lands and within the United States.

They have led the students to believe that U.S. foreign policy is intended to liberate foreign peoples.

They have failed to reveal the numerous flaws in the pedigree and the substance of the U.S. constitution and the Bill of Rights.

They have failed to teach the students that a constitution should limit the powers of the government and not the rights of the people.

They have failed to teach the students that neither a constitution nor a bill of rights is a source of rights.

They have taught the students that people have an obligation to obey authority.

They have discouraged the students from questioning authority.

They have conditioned the students to not think at all, but merely to respond.